(A) Tell us what makes your student job extraordinary (max. 1,000 characters incl. spaces):

My name's Elena Tafuni and I'm 23 years old. I have been living in Milan for 5 years where I'm attending the second year of Master in Modern Philology, curriculum publishing.

I love reading and I love books and publishing stuff, so I hope that this passion one day will turn in my daily work.

That's the reason why last October I decided to start a personal business by opening my literary agency with three friends of mine. Its name's Libellula Agenzia Letteraria.

The agency follows Italian and foreign authors, looking after their editorial projects from the reading till publication. One of its aims is to establish a collaboration with foreign literary agencies and publishing houses. The agency is also looking for debutant Italian authors for promoting their works for the best Italian and foreign publishing houses, accompanying them in every single step of their project. As a literary agent, I have to protect and promote my authors, providing them the best assistance and service. I think that is an amazing job.
